Go to "My Computer" and click on "C:\Documents and Settings\[yourusername]\Local Settings\Application Data\Battle.net" Download the windows installer from here and use that to repair the game profile. Alternative: Go to CoD5\Config and change the gamepath to C:\path\to\your\game instead of C:\Program Files\Wii\Battle.net\ on the memory card. When you start the game, and then press the L+R+START button. The error will go away. Please visit this link for more information about the game and what works and doesn't work about the game. I was trying to install COD 3 to a TON of COD2 games, including Battle for the Atlantic. I cannot install the first one. I tried to install Battle for the Atlantic and it will not start. I uninstalled it and tried to install it and it had the same problems. I took a suggestion from a post on this forum, and uninstalled a lot of games on the PC and then installed COD 3, and it was able to install and play. I have a really strange problem. The game play is perfect, and it is up to date, but when I go to the Multiplayer menu the Multiplayer browser is grayed out and the only option is to Join Single Player. After several hours of messing around, I found that when I go to the Multiplayer menu, and then go into Options, then Edit, the Multiplayer Browser does not have an option to "Browse". Instead, it only has Browse Cloud (which has a cloud on it, and is grayed out). I also cannot find any option to turn on Multiplayer browsing. Can you please help me with this? It is driving me crazy! I can only play single player, and I have tried 82157476af
